

NCPS Disclaimer

NCPS – NC Paralegal Services provides immigration document assistance, paralegal support, administrative guidance, case organization, and general informational support related to immigration matters.

NCPS is not a law firm. NCPS and its staff are not attorneys and do not provide legal representation, legal defense, or individualized legal advice in the manner of a licensed attorney. Communications with NCPS do not create an attorney-client relationship.

All information provided through this website, through chat, by email, by phone, by WhatsApp, or through any intake form is intended for general informational and administrative support purposes only. It is not a substitute for legal advice from a licensed immigration attorney or accredited representative where legal representation is required.

NCPS may use artificial intelligence and automation tools to assist with document organization, intake review, drafting support, form preparation assistance, and case file structuring. These tools are used to improve administrative efficiency, consistency, and documentary precision. However, all immigration filings, supporting documents, declarations, and responses should be carefully reviewed before submission.

No result is guaranteed. Immigration outcomes depend on the facts of each case and on decisions made by government agencies and officers, including but not limited to USCIS, EOIR, ICE, CBP, DOS, and related authorities.

Users are responsible for providing complete, truthful, accurate, and updated information. NCPS is not responsible for issues arising from omitted, incomplete, false, inconsistent, or outdated information supplied by the user.

If you are detained, have an upcoming immigration hearing, have received a Notice to Appear, have a removal order, or are facing an urgent deadline, you should seek immediate assistance.
